

More than 16 thousand children were trained in the national Campaign "Do you know what your child is doing at home now?"

More than 16 thousand children were trained in the field of life safety basics in the national campaign "Do you know what your child is doing at home?".

The campaign launched by IGSU took place at the national level, with the aim of reducing the risks to which children are exposed both in the home environment and outside it, as well as to form preventive behaviors in emergency situations. as part of the campaign, the firefighters and rescuers, together with the partners of the 112 Service and UNICEF Moldova, organized a series of educational and interactive activities for children, parents and teachers, aimed at raising awareness of the risks to which children left alone at home are exposed.

Thus, the students participated in tours and demonstrations at the Security School of IGSU, where 640 children and 41 teachers visited the training rooms, interacted with firefighters and operators of the 112 Service and took part in practical simulations. At the same time, interactive workshops for children were organized, during which topics such as "What to do if you stay home alone", "How to call 112" or "How to prevent a fire or other risk situations" were addressed.

There were also practical demonstrations, through which the firefighters presented the correct use of the fire extinguisher, the evacuation rules in case of an earthquake and the behavior in fire situations, giving the students the opportunity to form the skills of correct reaction in various risk situations.

Also in the context of the campaign, thematic lessons were organized in educational institutions, including the "Basics of life safety" discipline in the thematic plan, which allowed the involvement of about 1,900 teaching staff in safety education.

following these extensive activities, children had the opportunity to become aware of the risks of emergency situations and the correct way to react, but also to understand the importance of following the safety rules.

The national campaign "Do you know what your child is doing at home?", launched on October 22, 2025 and carried out until November 6, 2025, represented an important opportunity to organize educational and interactive actions, aimed at children, parents and teachers, with the aim of raising awareness of the risks and promoting responsible behavior in various exceptional situations.

